

STATE SUPPORT

INNOVATIVE ACTIVITY

A place worthy of the region in the world economic arena is impossible without achieving technological and scientific leadership, the effective implementation of innovations.

In turn, innovation is characterized by complexity and high risk. To start innovation, it is not enough to have internal incentives and potential. Here, external incentives and, in particular, government support can be a decisive driving force.

We understand this and believe that public support for innovation should be one of the key elements to achieve the region's international competitiveness and a mandatory condition for the transition of our society to an innovative model of development.